

Greys GS2 Fly Rd Product Description

Weight

For an optimal experience, latest lightweight technology has been utilized in the GS2 Series. Out of each of the 16 Fly Rods available in the GS2 Series, the weight starts at 3.0 and the heaviest among the rods is at a meager 5.2

Prices

As mentioned above, for the number of features the GS2 Series boasts of, the price is very affordable. Starting from only $109 at Reversed Half-Wells, to $179 for the largest Full Wells, you are bound to find what you're looking in the middle.

Length

The lengths of the GS2 Series start from 7 inches to the largest at 10 inches, as per your needs. There are many different sizes to choose from, to correlate with the kind of waters you may be fishing in.

Handles

GS2 Series has two variations in handles. There are reversed half-wells for when you want to fish freshwater and full-wells for saltwater fishing.

Line Weight

The line weight in this series ranges from two till tell, so there's something for everyone.

For dedicated fly anglers, choosing the best fly rod among the huge variety available is nothing less than a daunting task. There are many external factors which need to be determined first, before you can settle on a series to choose from. One of the best additions to the Fly and Rod manufacturing has undoubtedly been the Greys GS2 Fly Rod. The previous Greys G-series rods had left big shoes to fill, and it can't have been easy to design a new style of Fly and Rods with distinctive features. However, the GS2 does exactly that, with varied features to suit individual needs at a much lower price. The features associated with this series are exemplary, especially considering how little time the product has had to circulate the market. It is genuinely a leader in design and convenience and for those of us inclined towards long-haul fishing is the finest design available.
